Utilising the LMS for learning

LUNCH TIME SEMINAR: 8 OCTOBER 2013

Tuesday 8 October 2013
12:30pm – 2:00pm
Oceans Institute Seminar Room G.05

Speaker

Shannon Johnston is the Assistant Professor for Higher Education Development (eLearning) in the Centre for Advancement of Teaching and Learning (CATL).

Sarah will be leading this interactive seminar with the assistance of the team of Learning Management System (LMS) Trainer / Educational Developers at CATL.

She will examine the role and purpose of an LMS in an institutional context, and with the team will explore uses of the LMS for learning, with case studies highlighting the usage of the LMS to enhance the student experience in University teaching contexts.

The session will involve audience discussion and exploration of potential for learning focused activity in the LMS.

This session is suitable for all staff involved in the delivery and support of teaching.

Notes for participants

Please register your attendance by email to fase-ecm@uwa.edu.au by 2 October 2013.
